

ABSTRACT

A computer system includes a circuit board which comprises a bus system for transmitting address, data and control signals with selectable bus configuration, a plurality of bus sockets on the circuit board for connecting an adapter card with the bus signals. The specification of the adapter card determines the configuration of the associated bus, and an indicator for the bus indicating the configuration. The indicator is integrated in the socket.

10
068363.0681